Comfort and well-being in the office.

Working from home, or remote working, is becoming a common form of work, and as a result, it will be a central component of offices in the future. The changing requirements of work mean that our living spaces are also changing: workstations to facilitate smart working are being set up in living rooms, halls or even in bedrooms. This often creates a demand for environments to be flexible because there is not always a separate workroom available.

basic cap Home combines storage space and workplace in a single piece of furniture. The minimalist design of the basic cap storage range in combination with the pull-out top panel as a worktop offers a comfortable place to work without sacrificing aesthetics.

The wide range of design possibilities in terms of colour and material, from single-colour décor to real wood veneer and painted surfaces in all RAL and NCS colour shades, means that basic cap Home will integrate perfectly into your existing living space.

From Sideboard to desk.

Either as a free-standing bureau or in combination with a second cupboard as a sideboard, the basic cap Home desk keeps things tidy, provides functionality and adds a special piece of furniture to your home.

When closed, the pull-out top panel with its characteristic mitred joints merges smoothly into the front, it functions as a desk top and creates legroom. When open, it reveals the multifunctional home office set-up: there is space for a laptop and office supplies as well as optional USB connections and power socket. Everything you need to work from home.

The sideboards are 74 cm in height and are available in widths of 80 and 100 cm with hinged doors or drawers. The handle-free push-to-open fronts emphasise the clear and cubic basic cap design style. The solitaires should be mounted securely to the wall to prevent them from tipping over.
